

Job Title:	Full-time/Part-time Lecturer
Location:	Futureworks, Manchester
Hours:	Up-to 40 hours per week
Reporting to:	Head of TV & Film Department
Pay:	£NEG

Company Info

Futureworks Media School provides education and training in sound, music, film, TV, games, design & 3D animation. At our purpose-built school in Manchester, UK, our students benefit from extensive practical experience in cutting-edge studios, learn from experienced professionals, and get direct support from industry employers. Courses range from 2 days to 3 years, and include undergraduate degrees, post-graduate courses and professional training for individuals and organisations.

The Role

To assist the Head of TV & Film Department in delivering classroom and studio based lessons on our degree and diploma courses. All candidates must have a broadcast background in either Avid Media Composer or camera and lighting with a preference for knowledge in both areas. A teaching qualification or prior teaching experience is necessary.

Key Duties

- Preparation and delivery of lessons
- Creation and marking of assessments and projects
- Development of lesson content and relevant media
- Assisting students in a personal tutor capacity
- Creation of lesson plans and schemes of work

Skills Required

- Good working knowledge of Avid Media Composer, Adobe After Effects and Photoshop
- Commercial experience with camera and lighting equipment
- Excellent verbal and written communication skills
- Ability to work efficiently to tight deadlines

Any experience teaching on the above software/equipment as well as knowledge of the Sony Z1 camera is highly desirable.

Applications should be in the form of a CV and covering letter and addressed to the Administration Manager quoting reference PTVP0110. Applications can be sent via email to work@futureworks.co.uk or via post to:

Futureworks
87-89 Mosley Street
Manchester
M2 3LR